

WILSON DRAFTS ADRIATIC REPLY

Restates Position of American Government With Degree of Finality

NOTE INVOLVES TREATY

Latest Memorandum, However,
Is Not Regarded as Closing Chapter

Washington, Feb. 19. — President Wilson today prepared and sent to the state department a reply to the Entente premier's note on the Adriatic question. He is understood to have restated the position of the American government with a degree of finality. Although the President dictated his communication in less than two hours, it probably will not be put on the table before tomorrow night or Saturday. An impression first went out that it might be transmitted tonight.

Polk Studies Memorandum.

The original draft, as prepared by Mr. Wilson, was sent to acting Secretary Polk for his personal study as he was the head of the American mission when the Adriatic settlement of December 9 was reached at Paris, with the consent and approval of the President, and is, therefore, thoroughly familiar with all the preliminary negotiations.

After Mr. Polk had completed his examination of the document, and it had been put in the usual diplomatic form, it probably will be returned to the White House for final approval before it is dispatched to Ambassador Davis at London for presentation to the premier.

Meets Premier's Arguments.

While conciliatory, the premier's reply to this original note was argumentative. Mr. Wilson in his answer is understood to have met this argument point by point and is believed to have again called attention to the principle of self determination as enunciated in his 14 points and his own declaration during the war which were accepted by the central powers as the basis for peace.

Although it makes clear that the American government has not changed the position it took when the original Adriatic agreement was made at Paris, the President's note is not regarded as the final chapter in the negotiations.

The premier in his reply to the original communication are said to have left the way open for agreement along the lines previously accepted by the United States and with the receipt of the American note it will be for them to decide whether the ultimatum previously sent to Jugo-Slavia embodying the settlement to which the United States did not subscribe will stand.

Account for Allies' Action.

Suggestions coming from Europe that the course of the Allies in proceeding to a settlement of the Adriatic issue without the participation of the United States might be attributed to a desire for speed and consideration of the necessary delay in cable exchanges between Washington and the Entente capitals were given only passing attention today.

It was recalled that when the American peace delegates left Paris for home in November there was an agreement that questions remaining to be settled would be adjusted through the Entente foreign offices and the American state department. The Allies continued to be represented by their premiers and Ambassador Wallace was present as an observer for the American government, but the understanding here was that the supreme council as such ceased to exist.

From the Allied viewpoint it is said that the seizure of Fiume by d'Annunzio had created a changed situation in the Adriatic and that a speedy settlement would eliminate him as a factor without a resort to force was desirable.

It is understood that this view is not shared here. It is said that a temporary impediment should not be set against the fundamental principles of self determination. In the event here the problem resulting from d'Annunzio's seizure of Fiume is to be solved itself through the normal operation of economic forces.

Note's Text Leaks Out.

As has been anticipated in Washington, the essential points of the Adriatic reply to the President's note of February 19 have become known in some of the Entente countries. State department officials, however, continued to refrain from divulging its contents in advance of an agreement for the conclusion of the exchanges, which is being held tonight.

SWAN FAILS TO AVERT CASE AGAINST KILROE

Ruling by Judge Wadhams Thwarts Efforts Instituted by District Attorney

New York, Feb. 19.—District Attorney Swan failed today in his efforts to forestall an investigation by the extraordinary grand jury aided by Attorney General Newton of charges against Assistant District Attorney Kilroe. The procedure he had planned came to naught when Judge Wadhams in the court of general sessions refused to permit the regular grand jury to pass upon allegation that Mr. Kilroe had failed to prosecute charges of larceny made by Thomas D. Donaldson, insurance commissioner of Pennsylvania, against George F. Montgomery. It was understood the regular grand jury had taken up the case yesterday and exonerated the assistant district attorney, but Judge Wadhams refused to have the minutes of the proceedings made public.

Albany, Feb. 19.—Governor Smith formally designated Attorney General Newton special legal advisor to the New York county extraordinary grand jury today, directing him to "attend in person, or by one of your deputies." The governor also notified Raymond F. Almiral, foreman of the jury, and District Attorney Swan of the action he had taken.

MRS. CATT NOT A CANDIDATE.

Chicago, Feb. 19.—Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt will not be a candidate for the senate seat occupied by James W. Wadsworth Jr. of New York, as suggested by May G. Kilbreth, president of the Anti-Suffrage association at Washington. Mrs. Catt declared today that she had devoted her life to a cause and "had accomplished a little good perhaps without running for office and so I never shall."

CONFESSES KILLING FERREIRA.

Rochester, Feb. 19.—Christopher Mammano confessed to detectives tonight according to the police that he killed Philip Ferreira with an axe in Ferreira's room early Wednesday morning, put the body into a barrel in the rear of a meat market nearby and set fire to it. He said that Ferreira had insulted his wife the night before at a wine party and had threatened to kill him.

OHIO MINERS TO STRIKE.

Bridgeport, O., Feb. 19.—Delegates representing 15,000 eastern Ohio miners in special convention at Bellaire today, voted to strike April 1, unless operators accepted their terms for division of the 14 per cent wage increase.

La Nacion discloses that President Wilson threatened to withdraw his signature from the British-French-American treaty establishing security for France to which the allies replied that such action would destroy absolutely the "new French policy for which President Wilson invited protection."

The fundamental points of the reply to President Wilson, according to the correspondent are:

"First. The allies answer the accusation of having prepared a convention for the annexation of Fiume to Italy, which presupposes bad faith on the part of Italy by saying that President Wilson is unable to demonstrate this."

"Second. The Italian petition for the establishment of territorial contiguity with Fiume is a very small thing compared with the seizure of Dalmatia which the whole world is able to prove by merely examining the map of Europe."

"Third. The allies observe that the project of President Wilson which comprehends the creation of a buffer state has been rejected by the Jugo-Slavs, and the allied nations have been unable to insist upon it."

"Fourth. The strip of territory necessary to establish the continuity of Fiume with Italy has not sufficient value to justify procrastination in re-establishing the peace of Europe."

"Fifth. Italy entered the war inspired by ideals at a moment at least as critical as that when the United States entered. She suffered sacrifices in blood and money incomparably more serious than those of the United States."

"Sixth. The President, in threatening to withdraw his signature from the treaty of Versailles, which established the security of France, gravely injures the new French policy for which he invites protection. He not only destroys the value of his first and most important act, but annihilates it absolutely since he shows that engagements contracted in accord with this policy can be destroyed lightly."

May Permit Publication.

London, Feb. 19.—It is considered more likely tonight that the supreme council will agree to the publication of President Wilson's Adriatic note and the Allied reply, although whether or not it is in Washington has not been decided. The newspaper pressure in England, France and the United States for publication of the document in order to suppress erroneous reports and rumors considered harmful, was discussed in the council today, but so far as has been ascertained, a definite decision was not reached.

NAME "BIG FOUR" FOR G. O. P. VOTE

Wadsworth, Calder, Thompson and Miller To Be Recommended at Today's Meeting

WOMAN IS ALTERNATE

Elihu Root, Introduced as "The Greatest American," Wildly Cheered by Delegates

New York, Feb. 19. — United States Senators James W. Wadsworth Jr. and William M. Calder, Colonel William Boyce Thompson of Yonkers and Nathan L. Miller of Syracuse, were finally selected by the Republican party leaders tonight as the men to be recommended to the state convention tomorrow as delegates at large to the Republican national convention in June. Mr. Miller was selected tonight when Elihu Root, previously selected as one of the "Big Four," withdrew in order to devote his time to the committee which is to plan the organization of an international court of justice under the covenant of the League of Nations.

Mrs. Knapp Withdraws.

The alternate delegates at large selected include Representative Thomas B. Dunn of Rochester, James L. O'Brien of Plattsburg, Mrs. Arthur L. Livermore of Yonkers and Charles W. Anderson, prominent negro political leader. It was understood tonight that Mrs. Florence H. Knapp of Syracuse, who had been urged to run as a delegate at large, or an alternate by upstate women had endorsed the selection of Mr. Miller and had definitely withdrawn from the contest.

Party leaders declared tonight that the convention would not instruct the delegation to support any particular political candidate.

When the convention opened the first demonstration was made by the New York county women delegates carrying a large placard of identification, who marched down the center aisles in front of the stage. The band played and the delegates rose as they entered.

Chairman Glynn called the convention to order. Virtually all the delegates were in their seats at the time. The delegates rose as the band played the National Anthem.

Prayer was offered by the Right Reverend Arthur S. Lloyd, assistant bishop of the New York Episcopal diocese.

Elihu Root was unanimously elected temporary chairman of the convention. He was referred to by State Chairman Glynn as "the greatest American and the first citizen of the United States." Mr. Root was escorted to the stage by a committee consisting of Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler of this city, Mrs. Arthur Livermore of Yonkers and Conrad E. Wettlaufer of Buffalo. The delegates rose and cheered as he walked on the stage.

Root Attacks Treaty.

The delegates applauded when Mr. Root said:

"More important than all is the necessity that we shall restore our republican form of government with the liberty of the individual citizen preserved by limitations upon official powers, and put an end to the dictatorship which we created, in order to carry on the war."

Mr. Root's attack on the peace treaty was frequently interrupted by applause. Prolonged cheering greeted his announcement that while he differed with many senators on the controversial treaty question he would have "despised them if they had yielded their honest opinion to executive threats."

Great applause again interrupted Mr. Root when he said:

"One of the things the Republican party has to do is to clear a lot of Bolshevik or sympathizers with the Bolshevik out of the public offices of our government."

"And don't let them run again," broke in one of the delegates on the floor.

Mr. Root was given a rousing reception when he finished speaking at 10:19 o'clock. Speaker Thaddeus Sweet of the state assembly was applauded when he arose and offered a motion that the rules of the assembly should govern the convention in so far as practical.

Better Is Applauded.

The motion, which contained the provision that a minority report, if submitted, should be considered as adopted. It was voted that all resolutions should be submitted without debate.

SENTENCE DEGRAFF SLAYERS

Two Are Sent to Elmira Reformatory
"Until Discharged by Law."

Lyons, Feb. 19. — Joseph Higgins, who, with his brother-in-law, Howard Baker, was indicted for the murder of William DeGraff, a watchman, at Wolcott on the night of September 11, last, today pleaded guilty to manslaughter in the first degree before Supreme Court Justice Sawyer, and were sentenced to Elmira reformatory "until discharged by law."

Higgins, who was under 16 at the time of the murder, gave information resulting in the conviction of Baker, who was sentenced to be electrocuted at Sing Sing prison. Baker was later given a respite while his case was appealed.

For his part in the burglary of the store where the crime was committed, Higgins, who had been judged mentally deficient, got 90 cents, candy and cigarettes.

SEES U. S. RULED BY SOCIALISTS

Hillquit Warns "Shooting May Supplement Political Action" in Crisis

LAUDS EUGENE V. DEBS

Socialist Makes Many a Sensational Statement During Assembly Grilling

Albany, Feb. 18.—Morris Hillquit, Socialist leader, today predicted that control of the United States government would pass peacefully into the hands of the Socialist party when it enrolls the working class. He issued a warning, however, that "it is not impossible the people of this country will be compelled to supplement their political action with a little shooting" if the profiteering class revolts after the majority of the people are ready to introduce "substantial reform" by "legal, constitutional methods."

Testifying before the assembly judiciary committee at the trial of the five suspended Socialist assemblymen charged with disloyalty, Mr. Hillquit declared that the Socialist party intended to promote its program by other than "legislative action, parliamentary action and in a peaceful way."

Not Plotting Revolution.

But while he asserted the party was not plotting bloody revolution to achieve its aim, Mr. Hillquit warned that history had shown that "when the privileged minority is about to lose its privileges, it becomes desperate and tries to destroy reforms or lawful revolutionary movements by force."

"In that case it will be up to the majority of the people to defend their rights against such lawless, powerful, privileged minority and in a case of that kind it may come to shooting," he concluded.

Mr. Hillquit made his "prophecy" toward the close of his grilling cross examination by Martin Conboy of committee counsel who quoted Victor L. Berger as saying Socialists and workers must be "prepared to back up their ballots with their bullets."

Mr. Hillquit, who exposed Berger, interpreted this as meaning to defend themselves after they had come into power through the ballot.

Mr. Hillquit also eulogized Eugene V. Debs, serving sentence for violation of the espionage act, and asserted that if he had his way, Debs would become the Socialist candidate for president.

After Mr. Hillquit had left the stand, he was succeeded by Otto F. Anstetter, national secretary of the Socialist party, who testified that, exclusive of the foreign speaking branches, only one per cent of the dues-paying members of the Socialist party are aliens and 71 per cent are American born. He was called to refute charges that the party was dominated by aliens who controlled members elected to public offices through resignations filed by party organizers. He testified that the "resignation clause" was no longer in the national party constitution and was a dead letter.

Defends War Attitude.

Mr. Conboy's questioning of Mr. Hillquit on the Socialist concept of "revolution," which the witness had stated had "no romantic significance of barricade fighting," followed a morning session during which Mr. Hillquit was grilled on the Socialist attitude toward war.

In this connection he had testified Socialists had "opposed" but not "obstructed" the war, because in the case of the United States it was not defensive; had repudiated the sentiment "My country, right or wrong," and the slogan "Stand behind the President," and had clung to "the true doctrine of patriotism, the ideal of international working class solidarity."

In connection with his previous testimony that Socialists were not pacifists, the prosecution showed that the Young People's Socialist league had printed blanks claiming exemption from military service on the ground of conscientious objection. This printing, Mr. Hillquit claimed, was not authorized by the Socialist party.

LABOR OPPOSES NEW RAIL BILL

Declares Reorganization Plan Destructive to Constitutional Privileges

MAKES FORMAL APPEAL

Meanwhile, Pledges of Co-operation From Railroad Executives Are Made

Washington, Feb. 19. — Organized railroad workers and union labor in general holding the redrafted railroad reorganization bill to be destructive of the employees' constitutional privileges and liberties tonight called on congress to defeat the measure in its entirety.

Representatives of the 15 railroad unions at the close of an all-day conference, attended by President Gompers and Secretary Morrison of the American Federation of Labor made public a memorial to congress embodying this declaration:

"The pending bill deprives citizens employed upon railways of the inviolable right to enjoy gains of their own industry. The return to capital is fixed upon an arbitrary plan, the rate which the public must pay and wages which labor must receive must accommodate themselves to the basis fixed for capital. This act makes the public and labor subservient to capital. For these reasons herein set forth and many others we request and respectfully urge that the bill be defeated in its entirety."

Sanders Assails Unions.

Washington, Feb. 19.—Charges by Representative Sanders that members of congress have been called into "caucuses" to be dictated to by union labor on the railroad reorganization bill almost broke up an informal conference tonight between congressmen friendly to labor and labor leaders.

Mr. Sanders said he had received an invitation to attend a "caucus" in the house office building and found instead an assembly at which labor leaders were prepared to present their demands to the legislators.

"I charge that this meeting was called to defeat the railroad bill," he shouted. "In order to force government ownership upon the country."

Mr. Sanders bitterly arraigned President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor, who was seated nearby, for having unjustifiably and indiscriminately insulted the present congress.

Turning about to face the murmurs of disapprobation which had arisen at his unexpected remark, Mr. Sanders shook a belligerent forefinger in the air at the labor leader as he said: "You can't have your own way about everything."

Immediately Representative Meade of New York arose and declared "the man who will say this meeting was surreptitiously called is a liar."

During the all-day conferences information was given out that letters of protest against the wage provisions of the bill would be sent to President Wilson and Director General Hines. Later it was decided to make the first fight in congress and intimations were given that if defeated there the workers then would carry the battle to the White House hoping that the President might veto the legislation.

The memorial addressed to the people of the United States as well as the two houses of congress declared that the bill in enunciating a principle for basing the financial return of investors subverts the principle of American government. This provision, the memorial holds, would constitute "an abandonment of government for the common good, the establishment of government for private interests, special privileges and class benefit."

Provisions of the measure for arbitration of disputes are attacked because of the manner in which the special arbitration board would be constituted and because of the way in which they would arbitrate. The arbitration boards, including the permanent federal board of nine members, might be so compelled, the memorial declares, as to eliminate labor from representation. Procedure of these boards as set forth in the bill, the memorial states, would destroy all discipline and lead to chaos.

While the labor representatives were in session, Director General Hines in conference with a committee of leading railroad executives received a pledge of their co-operation in the establishment of a committee of experts to gather data bearing on the wage problem. The executives expressed a desire that solution of the wage problem be expedited, and Mr. Hines said that the time and method of constituting the committee of experts would be recommended to the President as soon as a conference with the railroad union officials could be held.

Forecasting at least one aspect of the final fight to be made on the reorganization bill in the house, Representative Barkley filed late today a statement of reason for refusing to join in approving the conference compromise measure, which he attacked as conferring "financial favors" on the carriers that would force increased rates aggregating $1,250,000,000 and add to the cost of living generally.

With Representative Sims, who also declined to sign the conference report, Mr. Barkley will lead the small fight on the bill in which most of

WOMEN ARE ANXIOUS TO JOIN "BIG FOUR"

Sentiment at Hotel Astor Conference Favors Representation at Convention

New York, Feb. 18. — While no record vote was taken, sentiment developed at an informal conference of nearly 400 women delegates and alternates to the convention at the Hotel Astor late today was decidedly in favor of representation for their sex on the "Big Four." Up state women were particularly anxious that the women of their section should be represented on the delegation and supporters of Mrs. Florence Knapp, of Syracuse, held conferences tonight to decide whether to carry the fight to have her name placed on the "Big Four" to the floor of the convention tomorrow. Mrs. Knapp's friends decided to conduct a canvass of upstate delegates and the question of her candidacy will be determined largely from the results.

"It is for the very best good of the Republican party," declared Mrs. Knapp, "we ask for representation among the delegates-at-large to the national convention. The task of drafting a national platform is a big job ahead of us. Women who seek to represent their own sex at the convention have no selfish ambition. We are appealing to the men of the party for their consideration and support for their large representation of upstate women."

Some of Mrs. Knapp's supporters were known to favor her making a contest for alternate delegate at large instead of for the "Big Four." Prominent among these were Mrs. J. Henry Walters, wife of the state senate majority leader. "One out of eight delegates and alternates is not enough," she said, "we must have two."

The selection of Mrs. Arthur Livermore as an alternate is pleasing to all of us, but we want an upstate woman as alternate as well.

ENDANGERS AMERICAN TRADE

Slashing of Foreign Trade Estimate Considered a Most Serious Blow.

Washington, Feb. 19. — American trade with the world is endangered by the action of the appropriations committee in cutting the foreign trade estimate of the department of commerce from $1,656,000 to $480,000, Secretary Alexander declared today in a formal statement.

"This is the most serious blow ever aimed from within on our foreign trade," the Secretary said. "The sum allowed is only one-half of the appropriation now used."

"At the very time when Europe and Japanese governments are striving strenuously to perfect their trade promoting machinery through enormous increases in appropriations, this bill proposes to scrap the American machine, the most effective and smoothest running that any government ever had been able to assemble."

"At the very time when our rivals have an almost overwhelming trade advantage in exchange rates, this bill proposes to handicap American manufacturers by practically withdrawing the helping hand of the government."

APPROVES SOCIALIST OUSTING.

New York, Feb. 19.—The recent deportation by the government of "dangerous aliens" and the suspension by the New York state assembly of the five Socialist members pending inquiry as to their qualifications were approved by the Union League club at a meeting held here tonight. This approval was contained in resolutions adopted endorsing a report of the club's committee on political reform which made an investigation of the deportation and the assembly's action.

PATRICK MCCABE RESIGNS.

Albany, Feb. 19.—Patrick E. McCabe, democratic leader of Albany county for the last 20 years, tonight announced he had resigned as chairman of the Albany County Democratic executive committee. Mr. McCabe said he decided to resign in order to "avoid a primary fight which would wreck the Democratic party in Albany county on the eve of victory."

WILDE SCORES KNOCKOUT.

Jersey City, Feb. 19. — Jimmie Wilde of England, British flyweight boxing champion, scored a knockout over Mickey Russell, a local bantamweight, when the latter's manager acknowledged his fighter's defeat by throwing the towel into the ring in the seventh round. The match was for eight rounds.

The Democrats are expected to be supported by a few Republicans. Proponents of the measure, however, were quite confident the compromise bill will be approved by the house before adjournment Saturday.

The "financial favors" Mr. Barkley charged, were to be attributed to the work of "high salaried agents" of railroad security holders who have "cramped on the doorsteps of congress for more than a year." Attacking the financial provisions of the bill, in this connection, Mr. Barkley declared it is almost inconceivable that congress could be induced to adopt such a course, referring particularly to the provision that rates yielding six per cent on the book values of the roads with any excess earnings be divided between the carriers and the government so as to create a "jack pot" to aid weak lines.

ROOT OUTLINES PLATFORM FOR REPUBLICANS

Urges Decentralization
of Executive Powers,
Now "Autocratic"

SCORES PEACE DELAY

Says Treaty Should Be Ratified With Amendments "Long Before the Elections"

(The Associated Press.)
New York, Feb. 19. — Elihu Root outlined at the Republican state convention here tonight the platform upon which he believes the party should go to the polls in November. Most striking of his proposals were:

Decentralization of the executive powers which have made the president "more autocratic than any sovereign in the civilized world."

Ratification of the peace treaty with senate amendments "long before the presidential elections."

Reform of the League of Nations covenant by a congress of nations at the call of "a Republican president immediately after March 4, 1921," to establish "the rule of public right rather than the rule of mere expediency."

Rigid governmental economy and the adoption of an executive budget.

Limitation of the right to strike at a point where it conflicts with self-preservation of the community; establishment of a labor tribunal with power to enforce its mandates.

Revision of the system of taxation "which involves the tariff."

Americanization and the elimination of "a lot of Bolshevik or Bolshevik sympathizers" from public office. Universal military training.

Mr. Root's address, made at a convention called to recommend four delegates at large to the national convention, was regarded as the opening gun of the campaign. It was prepared after informal conference with the most distinguished Republicans of the state.

"More important than all," Mr. Root said, "is the necessity that we shall restore our republican form of government, with the liberty of the individual citizen preserved by limitations upon official power, and put an end to the dictatorship which we created in order to carry on the war. By a series of statutes unprecedented in scope and liberality, with singlemindedness of purpose and patriotic devotion worthy of all praise, the American people conferred upon the President powers broader and more autocratic than were possessed by any sovereign in the civilized world. Our capacity for effort, our fortunes, our liberty of conduct, our lives, were freely placed at the disposal of an executive whose authority was so vast that its limits were imperceptible. The authority was exercised by the President, by his heads of departments, his bureau chiefs, his government agents, and his personal agents, to the full, without question, because the people of America were ready for any sacrifice to win the war."

"Peace has come, in fact it not technically; but the war powers of the executive still continue. They should be brought to an end. It is not a simple thing, for now conditions have been created, which should be dealt with at the same time by new statutes adapted to the conditions of peace, and subject to the limitations upon power of our constitutional system."

"There is a double immediate purpose to be served. One, to restore the habit of freedom. It is dangerous for a people to acquire the habit of bowing to power without limits. They soon become subservient, and then character essential to freedom degenerates. The other is to stop a multitude of interferences, ill-judged although well-meant, with the natural course of business through which alone natural laws can operate to restore normal conditions."

The appeal of President Wilson in October, 1918, for the election of a Democratic congress, he declared, was "not merely an injustice to the Republican senators and representatives who, with splendid loyalty had supported every forward step of the administration," but "it was a demand for the continuance of the supreme power by the election of a congress which would submit itself to the orders of an executive acting at once as a party leader in politics, and a dictator in government. It was the instinct of American democracy that repelled the demand. Such long has been the government of Mexico. A government with a Louis Napoleon at one end and a plebeian at the other and with naught but subservience between is not a free republic. It is autocracy by consent."

"The President's defiance of the authority of the senate to advise upon the covenant of the League of Nations and to give or withhold its consent to the ratification of the treaty containing it," he continued, "was an assertion of right to continue the same autocratic power. It was a challenge to the right of any officer of the United States government to exercise."

TRADING LACKS "PEP" OF RECENT SESSIONS

Rails Record Gains of Two To Five Points in Final Hour, However

New York, Feb. 19.—Business on the stock exchange today lacked the breaks and activity of recent sessions until the final hour, when rails again guided the list to higher levels at extreme gains of two to five points.

The better tone of railway shares followed the publication of excerpts of the railway bill, now in course of completion by congress. Wall Street was not especially impressed, however, by that provision of the proposed measure that stipulates that wages were to remain fixed during the period of government compensation.

Developments of the day were favorable, comprising continued ease of demand loans, the marked strength of exchange, especially the London rate and increased dividends declared by representative companies in the metal and motor specialty trades.

Most of the early irregularity was occasioned by the erratic course of high priced industrials and specialties, notably Crucible Steel and General Motors. Crucible rose and fell within a six-point radius with a net loss of 2½ points, while motors were equally irregular.

Oils displayed consistent strength, holding most of their gain on encouraging trade conditions. Steel, equipments and shipping lacked stability, but rose at the firm to strong close. Sales amounted to $50,000 shares.

Railway bonds followed stocks to a limited extent. Liberty issues eased and Internationals were strong. Sales, par value, aggregated $12,750,000. Old U. S. Bonds were unchanged on call.

could not eat anything but what that awful pain would come and I would be nauseated every few minutes day and night. I was sick in bed sixteen weeks and my stomach grew worse all the time. At three the pain would be so great the doctor would give me a hypodermic. We had a council of doctors. At last the doctor told me I had better go to Buffalo to a hospital. I changed doctors and this one told me I had tubercular ulcers of the stomach and bowels. I got so I weighed only 90 lbs. He put me on malted milk and soups after a while and gave me medicine for my stomach. I had a massive discharge from the bowels at this time. At last the pain was not so severe and I would eat a little and then I would be bad as ever. I was that way for two years. I got so discouraged. At last I took three bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and it cured my stomach so I could eat meat, vegetables and fruit—something I had not done in two years. Then a year ago I had pyelitis and was very sick and weak. I took a number of bottles of the 'Discovery' and 'For a Prescription' together. I now weigh 133 lbs. and do all my own work something I could not do for four years.'—MRS. ALBERT BENNETT, Lock Box 5.

There is but one way to have good health, and that is to put and keep your stomach in good order. This is easy to do if you take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

They were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Taylor.—Born to Mr. and Mrs. Myron Calhoun, a son, William Howard, Thursday morning, February 19.

Delightful Social Evening.

A very delightful social evening was spent by the members of the Woman's club and their guests at the home of Mrs. Ida L. Baldwin Wednesday evening. Over forty were present. The earlier part of the evening was passed with music and various games and amusing stunts, which were heartily entered into by all. At 11 o'clock the party was ushered into the spacious dining room, where a most dainty and appetizing lunch was served. The tables were laid with a color scheme of white and gold with decorations of red, appropriate to the Valentine season, and were greatly admired. The various committees are to be congratulated on the success of the affair and Mrs. Baldwin receives especially thanks from the club for her kindness and hospitality in opening her beautiful home for this event.

TRADING LACKS "PEP" OF RECENT SESSIONS

Rails Record Gains of Two To Five Points in Final Hour, However

New York, Feb. 18. — Business on the stock exchange today lacked the breaks and activity of recent sessions until the final hour, when rails again guided the list to higher levels at extreme gains of two to five points.

The better tone of railway shares followed the publication of excerpts of the railway bill, now in course of completion by congress. Wall Street was not especially impressed, however, by that provision of the proposed measure that stipulates that wages were to remain fixed during the period of government compensation.

Developments of the day were favorable, comprising continued ease of demand loans, the marked strength of exchange, especially the London rate and increased dividends declared by representative companies in the metal and motor specialty trades.

Most of the early irregularity was occasioned by the erratic course of high priced industrials and specialties, notably Crucible Steel and General Motors. Crucible rose and fell within a six-point radius with a net loss of 2½ points, while motors were equally irregular.

Oils displayed consistent strength holding most of their gain on encouraging trade conditions. Steel, equipments and shipping lacked stability, but rose at the firm to strong close. Sales amounted to $50,000 shares.

Railway bonds showed stocks to a limited extent. Liberty issues eased and international were strong. Sales, par value, aggregated $12,750,000. Old U. S. bonds were unchanged on call.

"SADIE LOVE"

A Paramount-Artcraft Picture

Her wedded life was a dream of bliss—with one tiny exception. She wanted another man! She knew who, too,—an "old flame"—and she took the necessary steps.

But hubby's name was Pallavicini, from the land where lovers grow; and "twin soul" Jimmie was a "heavy lover" only on the scales.

Oodles of laughs, and the rest one big long chuckle! Come Early.

MORE PEOPLE LEAVING FARMS.

To obtain reliable information in regard to the movement to and from farms, records of the population on 3,775 representative New York farms on Feb. 1 this year and Feb. 1 a year ago were secured by Prof. G. F. Warren of the New York State College of Agriculture and John B. Shepard of the United States Bureau of Crop Estimates. These records show that during the past year the number of people on these farms decreased nearly three per cent and the number of hired men decreased more than 17 per cent. Of the men and boys who were doing farm work on these farms last year 650 have left farming for other kinds of work and only one-third as many have left other kinds of work to take up farming. If the same ratio holds for all farms in the state about 25,000 men and boys have left farming to go to other industries, and about 11,000 men and boys went from other industries into farming.
This is a more rapid movement from the farms to other industries than took place in the early part of the war, for according to the school census the number of persons in this state who left farming for other industries during the year ending Feb. 1, 1918, was 21,430 and in the same period 13,894 persons left other kinds of work to go to farming.

The records show that on the 3,775 farms, 4,069 houses were in use and 458 habitable houses or ten per cent of the total number were vacant. If these farms were typical in this respect there are about 24,000 vacant habitable houses on farms in the state.

There were 3,715 houses occupied by farm operators. Of these houses 20 per cent have furnace heat and 11 per cent have bath rooms. Of the 354 houses occupied by hired men six per cent have furnace heat and five per cent have bath rooms.

Of the nearly 15,000 persons living on these farms only 158 were women employed to help the housekeeper.
This was an average of one woman employed for every 24 farms. The number is nearly 20 per cent less than a year ago.

All the above figures and facts are of interest; but what the public at large is asking is: What becomes of the men who leave the farms? So considerable an influx should make labor more plentiful in towns and cities, but in fact it was never so hard to come at as now.

SOME PERPLEXING PROBLEM

To Correctly Report on Income Blanks Profit on Realty Sold.

Individuals who have during the past year sold business blocks or other valuable Ontario realty, and the list is large, as many parcels have been sold during the year, are finding it no easy task to report correctly and be just to themselves and the government as to the profit realized on the sale of the property.

Some of the buildings sold were erected years since, when the cost was doubtless not over 50 per cent of what it would be today. They are being advised that they should deduct a depreciation of 2 per cent per annum for the property. This would wipe out the entire value of the property where the buildings were erected 50 years ago, and approximately so for buildings which have stood for 30 or 40 years. It seems manifestly unjust to require that they report nearly or all of the selling price as profit made during the year. They have sold property calculating doubtless to otherwise invest the money previously represented in the property. While the state reports require that the property be inventoried at its fair market value on Jan. 1, 1919, the federal officials require that its value be arrived at by computation such as suggested. The problem has not as yet been satisfactorily settled by many whose reports must be filed not later than March 15.

Farmers who have disposed of farms, together with the live stock and personal property thereon, also have some difficult questions to determine as to the profits resulting from the sales. The duties, for instance, having been years in developing and manufacturing care. They too are perplexed, and if reports are made according to the advice they have been given they will be paying a tax on a larger part of the selling price of the farm and personal effects than seems just or right.

The Potato Market.

Potato trading in this village has been practically at a standstill, directly to impossible roads and further to the decline in the market to $2.25 per bushel. The city market report says of the market on Monday
"The supply in bulk at railroad yards is light, due to the storms. There seems to be a better feeling by buyers; market firm and prices slightly higher at close of the week. Storage averaging of good quality, but in markets damaged by frosts."—[Worce-on Tenth Birthday—Personal and News Notes.

Mrs. Albert Lough, of 248 Chestnut street, gave a surprise party Wednesday evening in honor of her son, Clarence Lough, the occasion being his tenth birthday. Thirty-five young folks were present.

Clarence was at one of the neighbors when his mother called him home and to his delight he found the young people gathered.

The living room and reception hall were beautifully decorated, the color scheme being green and red, and in these rooms the young people enjoyed dancing, music being furnished by piano and violin. Later a delicious three-course dinner was served.

Clarence received many pretty and useful gifts, including money. The guests departed at a late hour but not until all had wished him many more happy birthdays.

Evangelistic Services Are Popular.

Evangelist Lewis delivered another fine sermon at the Plains Methodist church last evening and was closely listened to. The music of the evening was in charge of Prof. Stanley S.
Kilkenny and was well carried out.
Tonight, Mr. Lewis will speak on "The Humiliation and Exaltation of Jesus." This afternoon at 3 o'clock he will conduct another Bible study class. All are welcome to these meetings.

Fire Fighters Enjoy Oyster Supper.

About 35 members of the veteran, call and paid fire departments enjoyed an oyster supper served at the rooms in the Municipal building last evening. Short talks were given by Chief Choate, Assistant Chief Stapleton, Alderman Coy, and others, and were of genuine interest to the fire fighters.

The dining table was enhanced by a large cake, bearing the inscription "Veteran Firemen and Call Firemen," which was donated by A. E. Nye, the baker, in appreciation of the good work done by the firemen at the recent blaze which destroyed his barn on Cliff street. The supper was put on with the able assistance of Ed.
Barnes as "chief cook" and was heartily enjoyed by everyone present.

More Trouble for Harrington.

James Glass, 13, of 167 Jefferson street, today swore out a warrant against John Harrington, 49, alleging that Harrington committed a serious offense in the house at 118 Lexington avenue on or about Nov. 1, 1919. Harrington, who is now awaiting a hearing on a charge of enticing the youth from St. Vincent's orphanage last Thanksgiving day, pleaded not guilty and was returned to jail to await examination next Tuesday. Harrington was arrested in Oneonta last Friday.

ROOT OUTLINES PLATFORM FOR REPUBLICANS

else his powers in any way which had not the approval of the chief executive.

"The President had the constitutional authority and duty to negotiate a treaty. The senate had the constitutional authority and duty to advise and to consent or refuse to consent in accordance with their judgment. The right to perform that duty was challenged by all the tremendous power of a President commanding millions of civil and military subordinates and controlling the expenditures of billions of money. Senators were threatened if they did not submit their judgment to the Presidential will."

The treaty they were called upon to consider, Mr. Root declared, "was fatally defective in several respects, not only from the standpoint of the vital interests of the United States, but considered as an instrument designed to secure the future peace of the world." It was the duty of the senators, he said, to "test the true meaning of every paragraph, to consider the conditions which the provisions were to meet, to estimate the human forces of self-interest and prejudice and passion under the influence of which the treaty was to be applied, and to form their own judgment upon the results which would be produced for America and for civilization."

"The reservations adopted by the senate," he insisted, "remedy, so far as the United States is concerned, the chief objections to the treaty. They prevent our entrance into the League of Nations from being an abandonment of the Monroe Doctrine, with irreparable injury to the United States and no benefit to the rest of the world."

Especially important, asserted Mr.
Root, is that they prevent the "incredible mistake" of Article X. "The agreement in that article 'to preserve as against external aggression the territorial integrity and existing political independence of all members of the league,' he argued, binds the United States when occasion arises to defend every member of the league by armed force against external aggression 'no matter what our people at the time think about the right and wrong of the controversy, or about the wisdom or folly of entering upon it."

"It seems clear to me that in the interests of the world's peace, which all America desires to promote, this treaty ought to be ratified with the reservations of the senate, and that without those reservations in their fair and honest substance it ought not to be ratified. I hope the treaty will be ratified with the reservations long before the presidential election. That will be done if the President permits it. If that is not done, then that is what I think the Republican party ought to stand for."

"Immediately after the fourth of March, 1921, a Republican president should urge upon the Society of Nations the reform of the league covenant, so as to make it establish the rule of public right rather than the rule of mere expediency, so as to make the peace of the world rest primarily upon law, and upon the effectiveness and enforcement of law.
A congress of all nations should be called to consider and declare what of international law still remains of binding force, and to provide for the further development and extension of that law, and for the application of the law to all justiciable cases of controver between nations by impartial judicial tribunals, and to make the decisions of such tribunals upon questions of fact and upon questions of law binding and effective. That is the old American doctrine, and that is the necessary method of democracy, for democracy can live only under governments of laws, and not of men."

"The extreme effects of the possession of arbitrary power are seen in the extraordinary letters of the President to Secretary Lansing published on the 14th of February, 1920, by which it appears that honest and independent advice from officers of the President's own selection is an offense, and that the exercise of the most ordinary powers of the heads of departments without consulting the President when his illness prevented consultation is cause for resentment."

"It is interesting to observe that many citizens—official and unofficial —who are willing that the country should assume the startling obligations of Article X are opposing the system of universal military training, without which our obligation would be worthless, and which intensively applied enabled the United States to turn the scale of war against Germany. They say we have millions of young men already trained, but how long is the service which these sponsored and patriotic youths have already rendered to their country to be made the ground for imposing upon them exclusively the burden of further service, and leaving the millions of young men who come to military age year after year untrained and unfitted to do their part for the defense of our country?"

Principles of our government, Mr.
Root urged, should be applied to the relations between organized labor and the public: "first, to assert the control of the whole people of the United States within its field, and the whole people of each state within its field, over matters essential to the life of the community, to the exclusion of any class control in such matters, and, second, to exercise that popular control by making and applying such laws and establishing such institutions of government, as to secure justice, within the law to members of every class and calling, so that our system of government will be justified by its works."

The people over whom one class or section holds lawful power of life or death to compel compliance with its demands is not sovereign but subject to the control of the dominating class, Mr. Root observed. The demands may be moderate today, he said, but with power unrestrained, the demands will become oppressive tomorrow.

"We should not attempt to make any man work against his will or take away his right to strike," he asserted, "but we should by law limit that right to strike at a point where it comes in conflict with the community's high right of self-preservation. No man or set of men can justly claim the right to undertake the performance of a service upon which the health and life of others depend, and then to abandon the service at will.
The line between such a performance and an ordinary strike should be drawn by law."

"Inseparably connected with the right of control by the governing people is the duty of justice resting upon them. If the people by law prohibit organized labor from holding them up to enforce its demands, the people are bound to provide means to ascertain whether the demands are just, and for enforcing them if found just. That duty calls for the establishment of a competent and impartial tribunal, and for the enforcement of its decisions."

Referring to the question of economy, Mr. Root declared "it is true that a political party cannot make individuals thrifty, but a political party can produce the shining and potent example of thrifty and economical government." There had been a profligate expenditure during the war which to some extent was inevitable, he said, but there would have been less if capable business men had been called to Washington "instead of leaving authority in the hands of a group of men quite untrained in business affairs and distrustful of all who had achieved business success."

Officials and agents of the present administration, he asserted, have acquired the habit of spending public money and don't know when to stop.
Three things can be done, he explained, to bring about a reform.

"First, establishment of an executive budget system, under which the government will be obliged to start with its resources in order to determine its expenditures."

"Second, to secure an executive department which will stop urging and a congress that will stop appropriating money for things which need not be done now so expensively, or need not be done at all."

"Third, to revise the system of taxation, and to make some serious changes in it indicated by experiences of its effects. The review of taxation will involve the tariff." "Our new tariff law must be framed so that American industry will not be ruined, especially so that the manufacture of things which the war has shown to be necessary for the independence of the country shall not be stopped, and it must be framed so as not to destroy the export trade of Europe, which directly or indirectly will enable Europe to pay her debts and remain solvent."

Russian Bolshevism, Mr. Root declared, has set upon a definite undertaking to destroy all existing democratic governments and its misadventures have made some headway in the United States. When we find Bolshevik missionaries inciting criminal overthrow of the government, it is lawful and sensible, he argued, to punish and deport them.

"The right of free speech does not include the right to incite crime," he explained. "Yet we must be careful not to overlook the distinction. Let there be a fair hearing, and let no expression of mere differing opinion—however radical or distasteful—be punished."

The chief means of meeting the Bolshevik assault, he asserted, was "Americanization." We must not confine it to the foreign born, he stated, it must extend to all children in the schools, and to that end to teachers in the schools, not by any means excluding the professors in our colleges.

—Owing to unforeseen circumstances, the meeting for the observance of the day of prayer for missions will be held in the Main Street Baptist church at 2:30 p. m. today instead of at the First Baptist church as previously announced. All women of the churches of the city should remember this meeting and attend if possible.

Snow Storm Blocks Railroads And Prevents Keeping Former Dates.

"It takes a snow storm to stop our agents," said District Director Fred J. Graft in announcing that he had re-assigned Auditor J. Howard Scott, of the State Income Tax bureau, to be at the Chamber of Commerce, Oneonta, on February 23rd, 24th and 25th.

Previously Mr. Graft had assigned this agent to be here on February 16 and 17 but on account of the severe snow storm he was unable to reach his destination. In making this re-assignment Mr. Graft stated that it is the aim of State Comptroller Travis to give tax-payers all possible assistance in making out their returns.

Mr. Graft urges all tax-payers to avail themselves of his assistance while he is in this city. On account of the many places throughout the state to be covered by these agents it will only be possible in occasional cases to re-assign agents during the collection period.

"These agents are strong and anxious for work," he added, "and many of them are complaining that they are not kept busy while working on these special assignments. There is no disputing the fact that better results can be obtained by talking across the desk with a man, regarding difficult problems than can be obtained by correspondence."

Meetings Today.

Regular meeting of the E. R. C. of A. this evening. General Chairman Hills and Representative of Grand Lodge Dudley will be present. Important business. Large attendance desired. Smoker.

Oneonta council, No. 388, United Commercial Travelers, will hold their regular meeting this evening. Initiation of large class. Social session will follow regular business meeting.

Notice, Brotherhood Railway Car-men of America—Tonight is regular meeting night and our general chairman and some of our grand lodge representatives are to be with us. Remember, we are also to have a smoker.

Father Noonan Arrives Today.

It is understood that Father Noonan, lately of Valatie, but who has recently been appointed to the charge of St. Mary's Roman Catholic church in this city, will arrive in Oneonta today and will conduct the services at the church on Sunday next. This evening at 7:30 o'clock there will be the Stations of the Cross.

St. James' Guild Meets.

St. James' guild met in the parish rooms yesterday afternoon for the transaction of business. After the meeting refreshments were served.

"Herrieff Says:"

The idea that one good move deserves another seems to have taken a firm hold on the business houses in Oneonta. It won't be long before a shopper's guide book will be almost necessary, or folks will be going to an undertaker for a loaf of bread, a candy store for a keg of nails, or a drug store for a banjo string. Well, we're going to move, too, but it is not going to bother you to find Herrieff. You're simply going to know right where to find him any time and every time you want to see the good stuff which men like to wear.

Who'll buy a white bosom shirt, 14 1/2, 16 1/2? Some laundered and some not. Look, 25c each. The manufacturer is charging about $2.50 a doz. for them now. LA REAU BUY'S JUDD'S STORE

WELD-KNOWN LOCAL DRY GOODS HOUSE CHANGES HANDS.

A. L. Judd retires from active business owing to personal reasons. New Owner to Continue Store Along Same Lines.

Albert L. Judd, for over 30 years a prominent merchant of this city, retired from active business, perhaps only temporarily, yesterday, when he completed negotiations for the sale of his store at 184 Main street to William I. LaReau, who took possession immediately and is now conducting the store. Mr. Judd's decision to retire was prompted by the critical illness of his wife, necessitating that he relinquish his business duties to care for her. Although making no announcement as to his future plans, it is not improbable that Mr. Judd later may again enter business.

"Judd's Store," under which this dry goods and millinery firm has been conducted for many years past, will now be known as "LaReau's," but will continue along the same lines which have made it successful in the past. The new owner will make no changes in the clerical force, which is composed of Mrs. Mae E. Tiley, Miss Grace Warner and Earl Wood, all of whom are experienced and competent in their profession. For the present no new additions will be made to the stock, but Mr. LaReau later plans to broaden its scope in order to make it more completely fill the wants of the women of the city.

Although himself inexperienced in the dry goods business, Mr. LaReau will have the assistance of the old employees, who know dry goods from A to Z, as Mr. Judd put it yesterday, and there is no doubt but that the business will continue to enjoy the generous patronage it has had in the past. Mr. LaReau and his family have been residents of Oneonta for many years and have many friends who will wish the new owner abundant success. For several years, he conducted the Opera cafe on Chestnut street.

Mr. Judd retires from active business, after being for over 30 years a successful merchant of Oneonta. He entered business here in 1887 with a partner, and for two years conducted a grocery store at the corner of Main and Grove streets under the firm name of Judd & Dewell. In '89 the firm dissolved, and Mr. Dewell departed for other fields while Mr. Judd bought out a variety store being conducted by a Mr. Westerbrook in the Blend block on Chestnut street, where Williams' market now is located. He took his brother, E. S. Judd, into the business with him and for a few years they successfully disposed of crockery and tinware. Later, E. S. Judd left to accept a lucrative position on the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, where he is still connected, and Mr. Judd continued the business alone.

During the 90's Mr. Judd was forced to change his place of business three times. After leaving the Blend block, he occupied the Fritts block on Main street, which now houses the Bell Clothing company, then the Cornell block across the street, now occupied by Ward the jeweler, and finally the eastern half of the present Roman block. It was here that Mr. Judd started the dry goods business, for he purchased "The Bargain Store," conducted in that location by Rogers & Frisbee and continued their dry goods and millinery business.

He remained in this location until 1904, when he was forced to vacate, owing to the Romans entering business, and moved into his present location at 184 Main street, which he has occupied ever since, for 16 years. During this period, Mr. Judd has built up a prosperous business and has had a large patronage from the women shoppers.

His activities have not been wholly confined to his business, however, for he has served at intervals on city commissions and has frequently lent his aid to public-spirited enterprise.

BASKETBALL AT O. H. S. TONIGHT

Utica Free Academy's Strong Quintet to Play on Local Court.

This evening at 8 o'clock, the local High school basketball team will have as its opponent on the home court the fast quintet representing the Utica Free academy. This is the first time in several years that a U. F. A. team has played in this city and as it is reputed to have a strong lineup basketball fans are expected to turn out in large numbers to see how the Uticans will fare at the hands of the O. H. S. boys.

Tomorrow night, the local team goes to Binghamton to play the Binghamton Central High school's five. This team also is said to have practically a clean record and the Oneonta players will undoubtedly have to "go some" if they are to be the victors.

TROLLEY ROAD NOT YET OPEN.

Snow Plows Succeed in Breaking Open Way as Far as McCredy's. The Southern New York Power and Railway corporation, which operates the electric road between Oneonta and Herkimer, was unsuccessful again yesterday in breaking through the snow drifts north of Richfield Springs in an effort to clear the track to Herkimer, but made good progress notwithstanding, about four miles of the track being freed.

Two plows are being used in the work, one at day and the other at night, but the snow drifts are slow to yield to the onslaughts. And at a late hour last night the road was open from this end only to McCredy's, which is about six miles this side of Mohawk. The work is going on unceasingly and it will only be a matter of a short time when the road will be opened, it is believed. Whether this will be accomplished today, however, cannot be stated, but the company can do no more than its best with a situation never before equalled.

Cars were running yesterday between Oneonta and Richfield as usual and no difficulty was experienced, the road bed being in good condition.

Fortunately, the snow which fell all Wednesday evening stopped before it could cause any trouble and it had practically no effect on transportation yesterday. The Delaware and Hudson and Ulster and Delaware were virtually back to normal, although the passenger trains on the D. & H. were a little late, owing to heavy traffic.

ELECTRICAL CONTRACTORS

Perfect Organization and Listen to Address by J. P. Ryan of New York.

The National Electrical Contractors association of the Oneonta district, comprising the counties of Otsego and Delaware, held a meeting at the Oneonta Thursday afternoon and evening, at which nearly a score of those engaged in the business were present, the conditions of the railroads and highways preventing others from being in attendance.

There was a conference relative to the matters of mutual interest during the afternoon and at 7 o'clock all sat down to a dinner prepared for them at the hotel. Following the repast there was an address by J. P. Ryan, of New York city, representing the state association, which all greatly enjoyed and gained many helpful suggestions.

The officers of the local association are C. C. Miller, chairman, Benjamin B. St. John, also of Oneonta, secretary and treasurer, with Mr. Shelly of Cooperstown and J. B. Lane, members of the executive committee with the other officers.

DEATH WAS ACCIDENTAL

Paul B. Clarke Overcome While Sleeping by Gas from Leaky Jet—Body Arrives Here Today.

It was learned yesterday that the death of Paul Burnside Clarke, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Jarie W. Clarke of 7 Clinton street, occurring in New York city Tuesday night and mentioned in the Star of Thursday, was accidental, he having been overcome by gas from a leaky jet in his sleeping room during the night and was dead when found Wednesday morning.

This intelligence was forwarded by his brother, William G. Clarke, who went to New York on Wednesday to arrange for the removal of the body to the family home in this city. The body is expected to reach Oneonta this morning at 10:35 o'clock and the funeral services will be held from the home at 2:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon. Rev. Dr. Edson J. Farley of the First Baptist church will officiate and the body will be placed in the vault at Riverside cemetery and in the spring interred in the family plot in the cemetery at Schenectus.

Mr. Clarke was born at Schenectus March 3, 1898, and removed with his parents to Oneonta seventeen years ago, since which time this city had been his home. He attended the Academy street school and later entered the employ of the D. & H. company. When America entered the war he volunteered for service and served for fifteen months as a member of the Sixth Trench Mortar Battery company, nine months of which were spent in France with the American forces there.

Upon his return to the homeland, he came to Oneonta and again entered the employ of the D. & H. company, remaining for a time with the company but going seven months since to New York city, where he has since been employed at Hotel McAlpin. He was a young man popular with all who knew him and his untimely end in this accidental way after his term of service abroad is a great shock to his family and friends.

Surviving him are his parents, three brothers, Ralph D. Clarke of Cooperstown and Fred J. and William G. Clarke, both residing at home, and by one sister, Mrs. Arthur Wallace, of Auburn, this state.

WORCESTER WOMAN CLAIMED

Mrs. Harriet Albert DeLong's Place in Community Will Be Missed.

Worcester, Feb. 19.—The funeral of Mrs. Harriet Albert DeLong was held from her home on Depot street Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock.

The services, which were private and attended only by the family and a few personal friends, were in charge of Rev. C. L. Herrick, not only her pastor but a close family friend. His remarks were based on the words found in John 13:7 "What I do thou knowest not now, but thou shalt know hereafter," and he closed by reading one of her favorite songs, "God will take care of you."

Unmistakably the passing away of Mrs. DeLong seems to be there is a reason to be explained hereafter why one who was so young and apparently so much needed by her home and community should be taken.

Mrs. DeLong stood for all that was upright and was ever ready to do her best in whatever position she was placed. She was an active member of the Baptist church, a teacher in its Bible school, and treasurer of the Lend-A-Hand society. She was also secretary of both the local W. C. T. U. and Home Economics club. In all of these positions she will be greatly missed.
